FIND YOUR PLACE IN THE SUN

For Seaborn Blair, M.D., the ocean is a calling. The way medicine and service to others have always been. So when he wanted to bring them together, he looked for a medical school that encouraged him to create a dream and pursue it - on eastern North Carolina's isolated barrier islands.

The Brody School of Medicine at East Carolina University specializes in training the brightest minds and most dedicated hearts in the science and art of medicine. Our education and research programs have set new standards in training and discovery, while our patient care programs have raised the overall quality of life in the region. Along the way, we've helped more than 1,400 new doctors find their place in the sun.

Seaborn Blair, M.D., is medical director at HealthEast Family Care - Hatteras.
